Management report

The Russian market has started to attract more interest over the past months. Since the lows of 2010 the market has rallied some 40% but even so, because of a series of earning upgrades for 2011, it still trades on a PE basis at a 40% discount to the global emerging markets average as well as a 20% discount to its own historical average. The main driver of the recent uptick is the strength in global commodities; oil as well as metals. In addition to this, the continuing low interest rate environment in developed markets results in investors venturing further out the risk curve again – leading to more interest for Russia.

On the local front, perceptions of Russia were certainly helped by the recent acquisition of Wimm-Bill-Dann by Pepsi for USD 5.4 bln. As we have discussed before, Russia usually does well in periods when commodities are strong or at least stable, when the Russian state seems to be getting serious about reforms, and where one can see large multinationals getting long the country through a large acquisition. At the moment we can put a check in all three boxes. We expect commodities to stay strong, although volatility should be expected. Oil price is the one that could be strong to the extent that it does not break the back of a fragile global economic recovery. This is a double-edged sword for Russia, which benefits from a strong oil price but is also dependent on a strong global economy and liquidity.

Reforms in Russia are visible through the privatization round announced during the autumn. When these privatizations actually get started, Secondary Public Offerings in the listed companies are naturally good starting points and the market will continue to draw comfort. More painful reforms are unlikely to be dealt with until after the elections. Despite the downtick for both Putin and Medvedev, as well as for the large Kremlin-friendly party United Russia in the latest opinion polls, betting on anything other than a status quo in the elections – both Duma and Presidential – seems like a tall order.

In terms of macro economics, performance in Russia is steady. GDP growth in 2011 is decelerating slightly compared to 2010 as the stimulus from the Government is slowly withdrawn. Levels are far from the other BRIC countries in 2010 (China 10.3%, India 8.5%, Brazil 7.7%, and Russia 3.8%). Inflation has nudged up during the Autumn due to the increase in grain prices and the Central Bank of Russia is expected to hike rates (although it did not do so at its last meeting).

TNK-BP

In addition to the Pepsi deal, BP's transaction with Rosneft also adds to the improving picture of Russia. The deal has the companies becoming minority shareholders in each other through a share swap, as well as creating a new venture to explore the Arctic for oil. The deal has been legally challenged by BP's partner in TNK-BP, Alfa Access Renova (AAR) citing a shareholders' agreement whereby both sides' oil interests in Russia have to be made through TNK-BP. TNK-BP is likely not interested in a share swap with Rosneft and does not have the same capacity to enter the Arctic as Rosneft does, so the challenge is likely more driven by the quest for a financial penalty. There has even been speculation of a complete buy-out by Rosneft of the AAR stake in TNK-BP. AAR has been known to have negotiated its exit in TNK-BP several times in the recent five years but have been unable to agree on price. If a buy-out by Rosneft is done (Rosneft could be even more eager than BP for commercial reasons and because the deal would distance them from their historical involvement with Yukos, which has been especially vocal in the UK) it will likely also act as the trigger for the revaluation of the listed TNK-BP Holding in which Vostok Nafta has one of its largest positions.

Twelve Months Report Covering the Period January 1, 2010–December 31, 2010

Black Earth Farming

I have never felt better about Black Earth Farming. From where we stand today the outlook for 2011 is inspiring. Prices seem to be holding up well although not at the levels of early 2008 yet. Costs are in order although there is more to do to reach our targets. Finally, seeding for 2011 harvest is well underway and bar another year of drought the yield and the number of hectares in production could very well give us a record volume harvest. All in all a record year. The market is obviously fatigued by the company not having shown a profit since it IPO:ed in late 2007, but as 2011 progresses an increased visibility into the picture above will, I believe, prove very favourable for the company's share price.

RusForest

The company has started investing the proceeds from the rights issue completed in November. The acquisition of the sawmill and port in Arkhangelsk (LDK-3 and Infa) was completed and further harvesting rights have been acquired in Eastern Siberia. An accelerating interest to secure long term access to fibre is going to drive interest for assets like RusForest. In addition to this the official launch of the company's third sawmill in Eastern Siberia, Magistralny will provide further visibility into the management's ability to complete the turnaround of the company.

INFORMATION ON SIGNIFICANT HOLDINGS

TNK-BP Holding

TNK-BP is a leading Russian oil company and is among the top ten privately-owned oil companies in the world in terms of crude oil production. The company was formed in 2003 as a result of the merger of BP's Russian oil and gas assets and the oil and gas assets of Alfa Access Renova group (AAR). BP and AAR consortium are the company shareholders on a parity basis. TNK-BP also owns about 50% of the Slavneft oil and gas company. TNK-BP accounts for about 16% of oil production in Russia (including TNK-BP stake in Slavneft). TNK-BP is a vertically integrated oil company with a diversified upstream and downstream portfolio in Russia and Ukraine. The company's total proved reserves amounted to 11.67 billion barrels of oil equivalents as of December 31, 2009. Vostok Nafta sees a superior production outlook due to earlier investments into promising fields. The company is highly cash generative, well managed and cost efficient thanks to a competent management team, with staff from TNK's Russian business and BP's global operations.

- One of the majority shareholders in TNK-BP, BP, has announced a deal between BP and Rosneft involving a mutual share swap (9.5% of Rosneft to be exchanged for a 5% stake in BP) and the formation of an arctic exploration joint venture (66.67% Rosneft/33.33% BP). This deal has been challenged by TNK-BP's other majority shareholder as a violation against the mutual shareholder agreement. While waiting for the arbitration to take place on Feb 25, dividends has been suspended.
- TNK-BP Holding has received approval from MICEX and RTS for its shares to be traded at these two stock exchanges. Trading of both ordinary and preferred shares commenced on December 6, 2010. The shares have previously been traded at RTS Board only (over-the-counter-market).
- TNK-BP's business plan for 2011 provides for an increase in annual hydrocarbon production by 1.3% to 715 mln barrels of oil equivalent (1.96 mln per day), including TNK-BP's share in Slavneft (1.7% to 647 mln barrels of oil equivalent, excluding TNK-BP's share in Slavneft) a rise in the organic investment programme by 15% to USD 4.6 bln and a 100% replacement of production with new reserves.

Kuzbassrazrezugol

Kuzbassrazrezugol (KZRU) is Russia's second largest thermal coal producer representing over 25% of Russia's total exports of thermal coal. KZRU extracts its coal from 12 open mine pits, all located in the large coal district in south-western Siberia, making it one of the lowest cost producers of high quality thermal coal. Reserves are estimated at 2.3 billion tons of coal implying a reserve life of at least 50 years. The majority of production consists of thermal coal which is mainly used in coal-fired power plants. The key driver of the Russian thermal coal market is the power sector liberalization and the transition from gas to coal as a fuel source. Domestic thermal coal prices are at a large discount to international prices due to the regulations of natural gas and electricity prices in Russia. The gradual liberalization of these markets will close that gap.

- Kuzbassrazrezugol has in 2010 produced about 49.71 million tonnes of coal up by 7.8%YoY including about 4.7 million tonnes of coking coal up by 74.3%YoY
- Total sales 2010 amounted to 45.5 million tonnes including 24.2 million tonnes export sales
- Kuzbassrazrezugol plans to construct 13 new concentrating units, with overall annual capacity of up to 30 million tonnes. Putting the new units into operation will bring the share of processing in overall production to 98% by 2015 against 73% in 2010

RusForest

RusForest is active within the forestry sector in Eastern Siberia, Russia. The company was established in 2006 through the acquisitions of Tuba-Les and PIK-89 in the Irkutsk region. The company currently controls approximately 860 thousand hectares of forest land with an annual allowable cut (AAC) of 1.82 m³. By increasing its sawmilling capacity as well as adding other value-adding activities RusForest will continue to develop its vast resource and unlock its potential by delivering a good return to its shareholders. RusForest's goal is to develop into a leading independent integrated forestry and sawmilling company in Russia, with an annual harvest of 1.8–2.0 million m³ and an annual sawnwood production of 550,000–600,000 m³ during the coming four years.

- RusForest has entered into an agreement to acquire the Russian harvesting company OOO "Sibartles", a holder of a pine dominated forest lease, located approximately 80 km north of the Boguchansky LPK sawmill. Sibartles has an annual allowable cut of 165,400 m³ and cover an area of 105,497 hectares
- RusForest has acquired a new forest lease in Magistralny covering 125,565 hectares with an annual allowable cut (AAC) of 201,000 m³.
